

Joan West is a former literary agent, the founder of Bennett & West Literary Agency. In her “other life,” she was a college professor and now wears a third hat, as a senior editor and co-publisher of Fireside Publications.

Currently, in addition to guiding authors to publication, Joan speaks at literary festivals and writing conferences and teaches a class based on her experience as an agent, editor and publisher.

She also writes a weekly column for The Villages Daily Sun and writes articles for a variety of magazines, whenever time allows.

Joan and her husband, Glen, live in Central Florida with their cat, Strawberry. They share a love of books and writing.

Find out:

- What an Agent can do for you.
- How to format a fiction manuscript.
- How to prepare a query package for fiction.
- How to prepare a proposal for nonfiction.
- How to search for an Agent.
- Reasons for rejection.
- Why you might not need an agent.
- About self-publishing as an option.
- What the professionals say.

Discover:

- How important the “formula” is.
- Why you should always submit the first chapter.
- Why you never send a manuscript in a pizza box.
- Why it’s word count, not page count.
- And many, many more tips!

An Agent Speaks

by Joan P. West

83 pages

Reference

US$9.95

ISBN: 987-1-9814672-1-4

Fireside Book # 2201

Another Publication from the shelves of FIRESIDE PUBLICATIONS

www.firesidepubs.com