An interior designer with an unusual talent for discovering hidden secrets in houses and people, Kemble Morgan is taken on a terrifying journey from Miami to exotic Barbados.

Hired by arrogant multi-millionaire, Archer Griffith to redecorate his vacation home on the shores of the Caribbean, she teaches him that it takes more than money to find love.

Between trading barbs and kisses, Kemble and Archer are kept busy defending themselves against mysterious assailants, while Kemble also finds herself having to deal with the beautiful and wealthy Leslie Craymore, who has more than a passing interest in Archer.

Drawn to its beauty, but bewildered by her intense inner link to a crystal angel figurine, a gift from Archer, Kemble senses the statue will become more than a beautiful addition to her angel collection.

Love, murder, intrigue, and the glitter of wealth follow Kemble's footsteps in this intriguing first novel of romantic suspense.
